Mayor Outlined Recent Accomplishments, Future Goals in 'State of the City' Address

Romulus Mayor Alan R. Lambert

Mayor Alan R. Lambert's annual "State of the City" address – delivered during the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce's monthly business luncheon on January 16 – was a reassuring message for Romulus residents facing difficult economic times.

"Today, I am pleased to report that the state of our city is strong, and our future looks even better," said Lambert. "During the past year alone, Romulus was named the third highest city in Wayne County to successfully bring in new commercial development and new jobs to our city. ... Nearly half a billion dollars in estimated construction has taken place in this city since I first assumed office [five years ago]."

Lambert acknowledged that the City will face many challenges in the coming years, but he believes that his administration is up to the task of meeting them through a combination of continued development and financial prudence.

"I am proud to say that we are continuing our own aggressive economic development initiatives at the City level," he noted. "It is our goal to have new companies and their employees find Romulus an exciting place to live, to work, and to do business."

These efforts have led to a number of current and upcoming developments, said Lambert, including the construction of a new Fairfield Inn Hotel and a Public Service Credit Union corporate office, as well as plans for another new hotel and retail complex at the former Ramada Inn site.

400+ Turn Out for Annual King Day Celebration

The Romulus community's annual celebration of the life and work of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was attended by record crowds, reported Romulus Community Schools spokesperson Dick Kruse. Over 400 people took part in a Unity March from Cory Elementary to Romulus High School, and more than 600 attended the subsequent breakfast and commemorative program at RHS.

The event was a collaborative effort among previous years' organizers – the school district, the City of Romulus, and the Romulus Ministerial Alliance – as well as newcomers from Wayne County and the community.

Following their chilly walk along Wayne Road, Unity March participants warmed up with a pancake breakfast served by RHS culinary-arts assistant Angelica Richardson, district Athletics Department director Mark Woodson, RHS basketball coach Nate Oats, and members of Oats's team. The breakfast was donated by the Romulus Education Association, the Romulus Association of School Administrators, Romulus Mayor Alan R. Lambert, and Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano.

Kicking off the special program commemorating the life and work of Dr. King were Reverend Arthur Willis and youth groups from Pentecostal Baptist Church, who performed vocal and dance selections. The program also included an invocation by Reverend Mark Miller of Community United Methodist Church, greetings and acknowledgments by

Community Celebrates King's Birthday

(directed by Henry James) and RHS Choir (directed by Councilwoman Ellen Craig-Bragg). Presentations by Shannon McCollum-Mullins, Kathy Hurst, and Kyle Caldwell focused on the theme of this year's program: "Living Out the Dream – Pass It On."

McCollum-Mullins, coordinator of Romulus High School's new LEAGUE community-service program, awarded $500 Lorena Burton Memorial Grants to RHS seniors Jennifer Dick and Jennifer Logan. The grant recipients are charged with using the money for fund-raising programs that will benefit local charitable efforts.

Hurst, a second-grade teacher at Wick Elementary, talked about the importance of using the special cards that were distributed to all who attended the program.

"The idea is to do a good deed for someone, give the card to the person you helped, and ask him/her to 'pass it on' by doing a good deed for someone else," she explained.

Keynote speaker Caldwell, the president and CEO of the Connect Michigan Alliance, complimented the audience, saying, "I know that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., would have liked to see you, your community, and your program today. Romulus truly practices Dr. King's statement from a 1968 speech: 'Everyone can be great, because everybody can serve. You only need a heart full of grace, a soul generated by love, and you can be that servant.' I have had dealings with the Romulus Community Schools through the Leaving To Give program, and I can assure you that Romulus really 'gets it' when it comes to giving back to others."

Additional highlights of the event were readings by RHS students Tamica Mosley, Jennifer Dick, Markeitia Hudson, and Ashlee Hood; dance selections by Kristen Everett and Monique Talley's Ministry in Motion Dancers; and special slide shows and live presentations by students from Romulus Middle School and Barth, Cory, Halecreek, Merriman, Romulus, and Wick elementary schools.

The program concluded with Councilwoman Craig-Bragg's original vocal composition, "Pass It On," followed by a closing prayer by Reverend Earl Truss of the Church of Christ and a rousing audience-participation version of "We Shall Overcome."

Spokesperson Kruse expressed special thanks to Joe Fournier of Snapon for donating participant T-shirts; to RHS National Honor Society members, who served as ushers and stage assistants; and to Molly McGlynn, Alberta Garrett, and Kevin Cook for their musical and technical expertise.

"The entire Romulus community came together to honor the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.," said Kruse. "This impressive program showed what wonderful things we can accomplish when everybody works together."

Celebrating MLK Day

The annual community celebration of Dr. King's life kicked off at Cory Elementary, where the Pentecostal Baptist Church student choir (above) did a great job entertaining the people who gathered at the school to take part in a Unity March. Walkers traveled from Cory to Romulus High School, where they were treated to breakfast (courtesy of the school district's teachers' and administrators' unions, as well as Mayor Alan Lambert and Wayne County CEO Robert Ficano) and a special commemorative program.

Speakers at the commemorative program included Kyle Caldwell.

Lambert Gives "State of the City" Address

"Under the watchful eye of our Finance Director, Debra Hoffman, and her staff, we have been able to tighten our financial belts while facing the fact of rising costs and often stagnant revenues or reductions in the revenues we receive from the State of Michigan," he said. "State budget reductions continue, and more are projected for the near future. Other cities have recently found themselves in peril, and have been forced to cut back on many core services.

"We cannot underestimate the impact of the current economic climate in the State of Michigan on the cities," Lambert continued. "That is why Romulus is diligently working as part of a regional economic development team to transition our economy and bring new business (and revenue) into the area."

Lambert was proud to note that, during a time when other communities are cutting back services, his administration has found ways to improve the quality of life for Romulus residents.

"While we have continued to be fiscally responsible, we have been creative in seizing new opportunities," he said. "One year ago, I had the distinct pleasure of standing with many of my senior friends at the official opening of the new Romulus Senior Center. We worked long and hard with the Downtown Development Authority and the Community Development Block Grant program to make that project a reality. The new center provides our seniors with a place of their own, and we did not raise any taxes to build it. [And] Tax Increment Finance Authority funding has allowed us to purchase and renovate the new, state-of-the-art recreation center that is now under construction for the City."

Other recent achievements to which the mayor referred included:

- expansion and improvement of Romulus Historical Park;
- completion of the Merriman Road Enhancement Project;
- repaving of Goddard Road from Middlebelt to Inkster;
- creation of an information technology department; and
- public-safety improvements such as new protective gear and emergency response training for firefighters, and acquisition of law-enforcement and Homeland Security tools such as the new mobile command post that was put into service last year.

Ongoing and future projects include:

- significant improvements to the Junction Subdivision, including water main installation and street paving;
- construction of a new fire station and animal shelter; and
- continued pursuit of casino, racetrack, and baseball stadium projects.

LEAGUE Representative Visits Romulus Elementary School

Students at Romulus Elementary recently donated an impressive total of 1,989 nonperishable food items to needy families. The food – collected through a can drive organized as part of the school's participation in the new LEAGUE community-service program – was presented to Michigan LEAGUE coordinator Kari Pardoe during an all-school assembly.

Romulus Elementary principal Marjie McAnally was pleased to welcome Pardoe to her school.

"We are honored to have you at our school, and very pleased to offer you the 1,989 cans that our students worked so hard to collect," she said.

McAnally also thanked the parents who attended the assembly for their assistance with this worthy project.

After the program, Pardoe took time to talk with Romulus Community Schools spokesperson Dick Kruse about her organization.

"Ms. Pardoe explained that the LEAGUE, which was formerly known as 'Learning to Give,' now has offices in both Lansing and Detroit," said Kruse. "More than 40 Michigan school districts are now vying for top honors in the competitive LEAGUE service program."

Kruse continued, "Ms. Pardoe was also proud to report that the LEAGUE has grown into an international organization, with offices and programs as far away as India."

The LEAGUE is funded by various major corporations, and has received a significant grant from Michigan-based Kellogg Foods of Battle Creek. □
